Sanjay Centre students showcase handmade rakhis

NT KURIO CITY

Students from the Pre-Vocational Centre at Sanjay Centre for Special Education, Parvari, set up a stall on the college campus to sell handmade rakhis for Raksha Bandhan.

This project aimed to help students with special needs to showcase their creativity and build their confidence. It gave them a chance to learn important skills like communication, money management, and teamwork. Students also had the opportunity to interact with people and gain real-world business experience.

This event was an important step in promoting inclusivity and helping students with special needs feel part of the community. The students were guided by their special educators throughout the event.
