BLOOD DONORS' DIRECTORY

Title of the Practice:

“Jeevan Mitr” Blood Donors Directory

Objectives of the Practice

The Blood Donors' Directory has been established by the institution:

- To assist needy patients in contacting voluntary donors in emergency.
- To encourage people to donate blood voluntarily.
- To create and update a directory of volunteers so that the required blood is available on request.
- To save lives by making the timely availability of the required blood.

The underlying principles of this practices lies in the idea of inculcating in students and the faculty a fervor for community service.

Context

A blood emergency can come up at any moment. Many of the blood seekers suffer because the demand for blood is much more than the number of blood donors. Moreover, at the time of emergency, people have no clue about whom to approach and how to arrange for the blood. The college has attempted to build a group of self-motivated individuals who realize their responsibility towards humanity and are available as blood donors as and when required.

Occasionally blood banks and hospitals may not have a list of blood donors and in these times of need the blood donor's directory not only helps save time, but also prevents panicked running from pillar to post for the relatives of the patient. The easy availability of voluntary donors also prevents the unhealthy and illegal practice of selling blood by unscrupulous individuals, and acts as a step towards building a responsible citizenry in the students and faculty members.

The Practice

In order to create and maintain a directory of donors, the college needs to showcase the importance and necessity of blood donation to its students and faculty members. It sets out to achieve this by organizing seminars with expert speakers and social workers on the importance of blood donation. These series of seminars ultimately culminate in the organization of a blood donation camp in the college every year.

After participating in these seminars, interested students and faculty members register their details with the Red Ribbon Club. The College maintains an up-to-date record/database of the volunteers such as blood group, their contact number, and address, that is available with the principal and the members of the Red Ribbon Club. The College presently has a total 52 volunteers who have registered themselves as a blood donor. People from all over Goa have access to this facility on demand and can contact the College whenever the need arises. The College then contacts the blood donors, who then visit the blood bank or hospital for donating blood.

In addition to the seminars and blood donation camps, the college actively promotes a culture of awareness and responsibility regarding blood donation. Regular awareness campaigns are conducted through posters, flyers, and digital platforms, emphasizing the life-saving impact of blood donation and encouraging more individuals to join the cause.

This comprehensive approach ensures that the college's blood donation program goes beyond mere annual events, becoming an integral part of the college's culture and contributing significantly to the well-being of the community at large.

Evidence of Success

The college, till date, has helped more than 240 patients all over Goa.

The problems encountered are as follows:

- Keeping the donor information accurate and up-to-date can be a challenge; however, this can be countered through regular communication and establishing a team specially tasked with verifying and updating donor information.
- Ensuring the privacy and confidentiality of donors is of crucial importance and the college has adopted multiple data protection measures to mitigate any risks of a data leakage that could compromise donor safety.
- Keeping donors engaged and motivated to the cause of community service is also a challenge. This is mitigated through organizing events, seminars, and camps promoting the need for blood donation.

The resources required are as follows:

- Seminar materials, including presentations and informational pamphlets on the importance of blood donation.
- Access to medical professionals for accurate and up-to-date information on blood donation processes and health benefits.
- Online registration system for volunteers to easily sign up and provide their details
